CORNER-STONE OF NEW ARMORY LAID

New Building at Seventh and Marshall Will Be Occupied by First Virginia Regiment.

REGIMENT HISTORY

Made Enviable Record at Manassas and Participated in Gettysburg Charge.

Marked by impressive Masonic rites, the corner-stone of the new armory of the First Virginia Regiment, at Seventh and Marshall Streets, was taid yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the presence of a large audience. The core monies were conducted by Tompule yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the presence of a large audience. The ceremonies were conducted by Temple Lodge, No. 2, A. F. and A. M., assisted by St. Andrew's Commandery, No. 13, under the auspices of the First Regiment Association. Judge David Crockett Richardson delivered the oration. Owing to peculiar surrounding of the new structure, it was found impracticable to lay the stone at the northeast corner, and by special dispensation, the northwest corner was selected as its resting place. In the hollow of the stone, a copper box filled with the usual mementoes, was inserted. It contains a roster of the "Bloody First," and its successor, the First Battalion, First Virginia Regiment; a history of the old armory and facts pertaining to the new building; data supplied by the Masonic orders conducting the ceremony; names of city officials; daily papers and several coins.

Judge Richardson, in his address, deal collects, with the First Regiment.

Judge Richardson, in his address, dealt chiefly with the First Regiment and its development, reviewing the war-time record of the old organization. While an advocate of universal tiler: J. L. Stines, treasurer: Alexander tion. While an advocate of universal peace, Judge Richardson, regarded a well-regulated militia, composed of the body of the people, and without mercenary motives, as one of the safe-guards of peace. The erection of the new building, he said, does not mark a new era for the First Regiment, but rather a sign of its development. He closed with a plea that the headquarters of the regiment be brought back to this city, where it belongs.

The corner-stone ceremonies were

The corner-stone ceremonies were receded by a short parade by the organizations participating. A provisional company, commanded by Major Lawrence T. Price, assembled at the temporary quarters of the Richmond Grays and escorting the First Regiment Association, marched to Sixth and trace Streets where it was met by the frace Streets, where it was met by the Masonic orders, escorted by the Grays, Headed by Kessnich's Municipal Band, the entire body took up the route to

The presiding officer at the ceremonies was Captain C. A. Crawford, president of the First Regiment Association. The members of Temple Lodge actively participating in the eremonials were: Worshipfuls Charles H. Mason, marshal; W. R. Lyman, worshipful master; Rev. W. R. Burrell, chaplain; H. T. Simpson, senior war-den, D. P. Sigourney, junior warden;

The old First Regiment, according to Judge Richardson, was composed of war. Included in these were the Richmond Light Infantry Blues and the Richmond Grays, both still in existence. Three companies were assigned to other regiments, but the bal-ance remained in active service until the end of the four-year struggle.

Makes Record at Manassas. The regiment received its baptism of blood at First Manassas, where it made an enviable record. General Longstreet, to whose brigade it was attached, said: "The First Virginia Regiment is due more than its share of glory of the occasion by the stub-born resistence with which it repelled an attack which prevented General McDowell from effecting a junction of two divisions of the Federal Army."

Pollard Enters Race.
The feature of the closing day was authority to take possession of the Virginia property of the Empire Surety Company, of New York, recently declared insolvent by the Supreme Court of the County of New York, for the protection of claims held against the company in this State.

Proceedings were begun by the Supreme Court of New York County, for the perintendent of Insurance of New York County, for the purpose of liquidating the insurance company's business and distributing its assets. In the course of the proceedings the defendant was declared insolvent and put into liquidation.

Prior to this action the Empire in the unexpected announcement of the candidacy of Mr. Pollard for Attorney-General. He is one of the best known lawyears in Richmond, having for many years made his home in this city. Recently he built a home in Ginter Park, and now votes is Henrico County, having his law offices here. As a member of the Constitutional Convention from Richmond and as the compiler of Pollard's Code of Virginia, an annotated law book of great value to those practicing in Virginia courts, Mr. Pollard has won for himself a State-wide reputation. He is also the author of other law textbooks. and is an authority on the unexpected announcement of the textbooks, and is an authority on Virginia law. In politics he has al-ways taken an active part, though he has not before sought an office of this character. In the senatorial campaign of 1911 he was strongly allied with the Jones and Glass elements in opposition to the Martin-Swanson or opposition to the Martin-Swanson or machine organization. Attorney-Gen-eral Williams is a strong machine man, and Messrs. In national politics Mr. Pol-lard was an original Wilson manin Richmond city registered 4 per cent bends, all of which are still in the hands of the Treasurer.

Can't Pay Creditors.

The petition filed yesterday in the Circuit Court sets forth that the Empire Surety Company is "in such financial condition as not to be able to pay its creditors in this State." In view of this fact, the petition continues, the State Insurance Commissioner has applied to the State Corporation Commission for its consent to his taking possession of all deposits and assets of the company in this State, and that the Corporation Commission has given its approval.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE FACULTY OF the Medical College of Virginia upon the death of Dr. THOMAS H. BARNES.

At a called meeting of the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia at 1 P. M. June 5, 1913, the faculty learned of the death of Dr. Thomas H. Barnes, chairman of the board of visitors of the Medical College of Virginia, and passed the following resolutions:

Whereas we, the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia, assembled, learn with deep regret and sorrow of the death of Dr. Thomas H. Barnes, the honored chairman of the board of visitors of the Medical College of Virginia, be it

Resolved, That we recognize in the death of Dr. Thomas H. Barnes a great loss to the Medical College of Virginia, especially at this period of its larger endeavor. In his death the Medical College of Virginia, has lost a tried and true friend, the valued and beloved chairman of its board and the influence of his unswerving attention to duty, his nobility of character, his strong and lovable personality, his devotion to this college, from which he graduated, and his long and faithful and able service on the board; further be it

Resolved, That not only does his family and the Medical College of

able service on the board; further be it

Resolved. That not only does his family and the Medical College of Virginia suffer from his death, but the State of Virginia and the profession at large lose a man whose life was an ennobling example to all with whom he came in contact, a man whose life made the name of a Virginia gentleman revered and respected the world over, and a man whose force and integrity of character made the State an officer, both in legislative halls and as a member of the board of visitors of the Medical College of Virginia, of whom Virginians will always be proud. Further be it

Resolved. That we, the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia, express to the family of Dr. Thomas H. Barnes our deep sorrow and sympathy for them in this their hour of affliction, and that these resolutions be spread upon the mindtes of the faculty and a copy of them be sent to the family and to the daily press.
